Chapter 13 involves debtors who have sufficient income and means, and who would like to establish a repayment plan to address their debts over time. This significant difference means that there isn't as much of a reason to collect, redistribute, or sell a debtor's property to pay off creditors because the filer intends to repay their debt over the duration of their repayment plan (typically 3 to 5 years).

Maycomb welcomes Aunt Alexandra. She's soon a fixture in the social circle and she begins hosting the missionary society. It amuses Jem that Aunt Alexandra often points out the shortcomings of other families, since the Finches are related to almost everyone in Maycomb. She confuses Scout by insisting that fine folks are fine because they've been landowners for a long time.

A chapter 13 plan may provide for the four general categories of debt: priority claims, secured claims, priority unsecured claims, and general unsecured claims. Chapter 13 plans are often used to cure arrearages on a mortgage, avoid "underwater" junior mortgages or other liens, pay back taxes over time, or partially repay general unsecured debt. In recent years, some bankruptcy courts have allowed Chapter 13 to be used as a platform to expedite a mortgage modification application.
